

WRECK ON THE MIDLAND DIVISION

Two Engines Running Light Crashed Into Rear of Stalled Passenger Train

TWO MEN KILLED, FIVE BADLY HURT

Among the Latter is Frank Kromer of Norwich, Who was Cut by Flying Glass and His Right Knee Pan Injured—Operator at Signal Tower Disappears but Surrenders Later—Accident Near Bolton Station.

Bolton, Conn., Oct. 6.—Two men were killed, the engineer and a woodchopper, and five seriously injured, two of them probably fatally, here late today when two engines running light on the Midland division of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, crashed into the rear of a stalled passenger train.

The accident occurred at Bolton station, where the passenger train was stalled because of a broken coupling pin.

Thomas E. Howarth, engineer, Putnam, Conn., was killed. He was cut by flying glass and his right knee pan injured.

William Sexton, conductor, Waterbury, Conn., was killed. He was cut by flying glass and his right knee pan injured.

John Flannigan, car repairer, East Hartford, Conn., was killed. He was cut by flying glass and his right knee pan injured.

Frank Kromer, Norwich, a passenger, was cut on neck and right knee injured.

Bennett, Providence, right side bruised.

Signal Tower Operator Disappeared.

The accident is said to have been caused by the failure of the operator at the signal tower, a new man whose name is believed to be William T. Dixon, to set the signals against the two engines running light. The operator disappeared and has not been seen since the accident.

Passenger Train Was Stalled.

The train, the rear of which was run into by the engines, was bound east from Bolton, where it was stalled because of a broken coupling pin.

The train left Bolton about 2 o'clock and reached Bolton about 2:15 minutes later. Just after passing the station, a coupling knuckle on the first car of the train broke and the engine went ahead, leaving the train standing on the tracks.

The engines, which were running light, were under the control of the engineer and conductor.

When the engines struck the rear of the passenger train, the occupants of the coaches were thrown from their seats and many of them badly injured.

Among the most seriously injured were Frank Kromer of Norwich, who was cut on the neck and right knee, and William Sexton, conductor, who was killed.

When the accident occurred, the signal tower operator, William T. Dixon, disappeared.

He was last seen running toward the engine, which was running light.

He was not seen again until he was found at the station, where he had been hiding.

He was taken to the hospital, where he is now lying.

INTERNATIONAL PRISON CONGRESS AT WASHINGTON.

Principle of the Indeterminate Sentence Endorsed by European Members.

Washington, Oct. 6.—After opposing for thirty years the efforts of American criminologists to induce the international prison congress to endorse the principle of the indeterminate sentence, which underlies the reformatory system, the European members of the congress today yielded and resolved to endorse this system.

The resolutions declared that the indeterminate sentence should be applied to the majority of prisoners, and that it also should be applied to the minority of prisoners who are not suitable for the reformatory system.

When the congress was opened, the European members of the congress today yielded and resolved to endorse this system.

In Half a Dozen Mixups at State Convention—Delegates Pound Each Other—Police Reserves Called.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The state democratic convention broke out in a wild tumult at the conclusion of the announcement of an indecisive second ballot shortly after midnight this morning. Delegates, who had been seated at the tables and upon the platform.

Police Struggle to Clear the Stage.

Chairman Thayer called for the police and twenty officers struggled through the mass of delegates to the stage. The officers were called after some difficulty in pushing the delegates back upon the floor of the convention hall.

Several Fights Started.

A second effort of the officers to clear the stage resulted in the starting of several fights. Fists were used freely and at 12:30 half a dozen mixups were in progress, with the chairman and some of the delegates.

Delegates were pounding each other in and about the press boxes and the speaker's platform.

The officers experienced difficulty in separating the combatants and the reserves were called in.

Conference Called to Agree Upon Candidates.

As a last resort a conference of the leaders of the convention was called just before 1 o'clock to attempt to agree upon a new candidate for governor.

The police and more sober-minded delegates succeeded in quieting the combatants who had attempted to take the stage.
